In Most Area Libraries, these are Young Adult Books

Ginny Maziarka & Co insist that numerous books in West Bend Library's young adult section are "sexually explicit" and should be labeled as such and moved to the adult section, purportedly to reflect "community standards".

I decided to take three of the books Ginny highlights and see how other area libraries catalog them. Here are the results:

	The Perks of Being a Wallflower	The Geography Club	Deal With It!
.Beaver Dam			Non-fiction
.Big Bend	Fiction	Young Adult
.Brookfield	Fiction
.Brownsville	Young Adult
.Cudahy	Young Adult	Young Adult

.Whitefish Bay			Young Adult
.Whitewater	Young Adult

As you can see, nearly every area library that holds these books places them in the young adult section, reflecting what appears to be standard classification practices for southeast Wisconsin libraries.

(Acknowledging that Deal With It! seems to be the one text that is also frequently placed in the regular non-fiction sections)

Are West Bend's "community standards" really that different than nearly every other southeastern Wisconsin community? Or, perhaps, must we realize that Ginny's opinions don't necessarily reflect the entire community?
