www.ginnymaziarka.com

Someone has created www.ginnymaziarka.com, which links to this NPR article, which states: Gay, lesbian and bisexual teens and young adults have one of the highest rates of suicide attempts — and some other health and mental health problems, including substance abuse. A new study suggests that parental acceptance, and even neutrality, with regard to a child's sexual orientation could have a big impact in reducing this rate.

Well done, whoever you are.
