

Baltimore Environmental Quality Assessment Project

Baltimore City Public Schools

Final Report

June 1, 1996

J. Lackney
Johnson Controls Institute for Environmental Quality in Architecture
School of Architecture & Urban Planning
University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	3
EXECUTIVE SUMMARY	4
Problem	4
Approach.....	4
Objectives.....	4
Process & Procedures.....	5
Summary of Findings	7
Summary of Conclusions.....	13
1. THE ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY ASSESSMENT PROCESS	14
Participation in Environmental Design and Assessment.....	14
Findings.....	15
The Case of Robert Coleman.....	15
2. ATTRIBUTES OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY	20
Defining Environmental Quality.....	20
Environmental Concerns.....	21
Environmental Perceptions of Students	22
Attributes of Environmental Quality	26
3. ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND EDUCATIONAL OUTCOMES.....	33
What Is Known	33
Environmental Quality.....	34
Link between Environmental Quality Concerns and Educational Outcomes.....	35
4. FACILITY MANAGEMENT, ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND THE EDUCATIONAL PROCESS	49
Facility Management and Environmental Quality	50
Educators and Environmental Quality	53
Facility Management, Educational Processes & Outcomes	54
CONCLUSIONS	59
The Process of Participation.....	59
Environmental Quality Issues	59
Educational Outcomes.....	61
Facility Management.....	61
Partnership between Facility Management & Education	62
APPENDIX A
ATTRIBUTES OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY	64
APPENDIX B
ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY CONCERNS.....	94
APPENDIX C
PROCEDURE FOR ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY ASSESSMENT.....	110
APPENDIX D
CASE STUDIES.....	161

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We would like to thank the following individuals:

Students, teachers, staff, parent volunteers, school administration, and especially the working groups at:

Dr. Rayner Browne Elementary School #25
Coldstream Park Elementary School #31
Mildred D. Monroe Elementary School #32
Harriet Tubman Elementary School #138
Robert W. Coleman Elementary School #142

The Baltimore City Public Schools administrative staff:

Matthew Riley, Tesseract Liaison
Stephen Ruffini, Department of Research and Evaluation
Jack Elam, Department of Facilities

The Johnson Controls International Facilities Management staff:

Bob Parham, Project Manager, Baltimore Project
Cliff Overton, Manager, Baltimore Project
Jim Butterfield, Technical Services Specialist
Marcia Jones, Manager, Educational Marketing

Finally, we would like to acknowledge Johnson Controls Foundation for funding this project.

Jeffery A. Lackney

Assistant Director
Johnson Controls Institute for Environmental Quality in Architecture
School of Architecture & Urban Planning
University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee